(However, you can also use it for removing the borders from images, creating images with rich or muted color and even removing noise.) * Lightroom is a powerful and high-end image editing program specifically designed for photographers. Unlike Photoshop, it's not a program for general photo editing. It is based on the concept that photographers are always trying to find a perfect exposure; in Lightroom you have access to many tools to quickly make such exposure adjustments. However, it's similar to Photoshop in terms of layer-based image manipulation.

“Everyone loves Pokemon. Everyone was talking about the Pokemon Go fad. I was motivated.” That’s how Alex Taldone, an aspiring artist and gamer, describes his motivation for entering last year’s Pokémon Tournament in Knoxville, Tenn. That was a week before Hurricane Matthew hit the East Coast. That left the east coast’s 830 counties without electricity for nearly a week. News caught up after that and the crowd at the Pokémon tournament was smaller than normal. But Alex persevered, and he won. “When I got the medal, I was really excited about it,” he recalls. “I was really happy with how I did.” It all started when he noticed that he’d gotten a notification on his phone from Pokémon Go, a new augmented reality game in the Pokémon universe. “It was about 7:30 in the morning,” he said. “I felt like it had to be an opening tournament or something. I sent out a challenge and was like ‘Go try to catch ‘em all.’” The challenge went to the east coast and mostly kids responded. “They basically said, ‘You’re on!’ And I was like ‘Okay, I’m going to go to a Poké stop.’” That’s a name in the game that’s basically a convenience store. It’s where you walk around to catch Pokémon. After completing that task Alex and his friends decided to compete. He thinks he was one of only six teenagers who competed in the tournament. “I’m 16,” he says. “The tournament is 18 and up. I didn’t even know until they told me.” But that didn’t stop him. He says he was excited about the chance to show the east coast he could compete against kids from all over the country. Alex says the hardest part of the tournament is finding a place to compete on. The tournament organizers moved it from a church to a lake. They couldn’t lock the place up, so they moved to the lake. “It was right in front of the kids swimming,” says Alex. “So they all started in front of us

A new exhibition showcasing work by some of India’s most prolific artists will launch in the capital next week. An exhibition by some of India’s most prolific artists will open in Delhi on April 6. The stand-alone exhibition titled “The Future” has been curated by Indian actor and director Mahesh Bhatt, who helped bring the exhibition together. Not all is well as the Time on Times Square movie billboard may have once said, but the future is not yet written. For this exhibition, (the) future comes in all shapes and sizes from the large - the 50 metres tall Vedanta Equinox Tower rising into the sky in the vicinity of the city centre of Mangalore and the 50 tonne Diamantia, a diamond logo designed by Chennai-based KB Diamantaires. Both are a reference to the forever enduring power that comes from stones. “The Future features artworks made with both digital and traditional media, paintings, sculptures, installations and jewellery,” said Shobhana Bhatt, the curator of the show. Artists from across the country are featured in the exhibition, with Bhatt’s and his wife Shobhana’s artistic influence also being felt in the show. “Both of us are an artist but my wife also has a business with art. She has been doing this for a while. I thought that if I join in on this then I would also be doing art along with business. It is all about the business of art,” says Bhatt. The future also comes to us from environments – artists are exploring themes of home and other spaces. “We are also looking at how we can bring this environment into living spaces, where you go into your house and some of the art that will enliven that space and that’s how we tried to approach the theme. I have seen graffiti of urban spaces,” says Bhatt. A big part of the show is also being set in the future and that’s where Bhatt says his team of young graduates from the Centre for Creative Arts (CCA) come in. “We think about what the future will be and we make an art that resonates with that future. Then we go to one of our close friends and tell them what we are thinking about and they make that art with us and it becomes a three-way collaboration. We
